FOR THE RIGHTS OF THE MOUNTAIN PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY, NOT THEIR WRONGS.

VOLUME 1.

SALYERSVILLE, MAGOFFIN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, APRIL 18, 1912.

NUMBER 15.

Correspondence.

To CORRESPONDENTS: Mail your letters early so they will get to us later than Monday night. RULES: Write on one side of the paper only; write plainly; spell names correctly, and write "Cor" on the envelope.

Leave out neighborhood visits or we will.

If your letter does not appear, remember that it was either too late or that its contents did not justify publication.

We leave out a part, or all, of other letters as well as yours.

Our space is limited and we must leave out much that is intended for publication. That is one of the many unthankful tasks of the editor.

Correspondents get your LETTERS in early.

OLDE.

Farmers are getting busy at this place after such a long rest spell.

Ye scribe made a business trip to Squire Bailey's. The Squire has a regular circuit court. If all of the Magistrates would go after crime like Squire Bailey we would have a better county.

Virgie Jenkins has left here for Jenkins.

Hurrah for W. R. Prater for another term as county attorney.

W. A. Cheek, of Salyersville, was here a few days ago on business.

John B. Adams is renovating his farm this spring.

PUFF STUFF.

MASH FORK.

Henry Lemaster left for Mt. Sterling Monday with a bunch of cattle.

Virgie Reed, of the Gardner branch, was a business visitor here Monday.

Lonza Caudill, of Falcon, was here last Tuesday on business.

Farmers in this vicinity are planting corn.

HOPE.

JULIAN.

Rosa, little daughter of Albert Crace, died April 7th.

Mrs. Albert Crace is very low with consumption.

Born to the wife of Sam Conley on April 10th, two girls—Thelma and Beatrice.

Charley Collinsworth and wife parted April 8th, making their 9th separation.

WELCOME.

GAPVILLE.

Born to the wife of Cleveland Adams a fine girl. Then on April 7th, the death angel came and took away his two year old son.

Mrs. Minnie England, of Middle creek, was visiting her parents Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. Evelyn Stanley is still on the sick list.

Rev. J. E. Risner passed here today on his way from Alger, O. He will visit his son Leslie, whose wife is very low with consumption.

OIL SPRINGS.

Winnie Price has gone to Mt. Sterling this week with some mules.

The stork visited the home of Sam Conley the 9th and left twin girls.

Y. C. Ward, of Paintsville, is looking after timber in this section.

Maude Salyers passed through here last week enroute to Salyersville.

Luther Litteral, who has been very sick for some time is improving.

Uncle George Collinsworth is very sick.

Mrs. Elvira Sharp, grandmother of Spencer West, who had lived to a ripe old age, departed this life April 12, 1912.

HOPEFUL.

GIFFORD.

The old winter is gone and in its place is beautiful spring with its budding of leaves and the fragrant odor of blossoming fruit and flowers, which tell us of God's goodness to his creation, but how unmindful some are of that love He has for us.

Farmers are awakening to the fact that spring is the time to make ready for the fall's harvest and are going to work, for bread is scarce and high, and that ought to teach us a lesson for the future.

Married on the 11th, Eddie Gullett, of Gifford, and Josephine Oditt, of Gullett.

JUDGE.

Black Betsey, W. Va., Apr. 9. Editor Mountaineer.

Dear Sir:—Enclosed you will find check for $1.00 for which please send me the Mountaineer for one year.

Yours very truly,
GEO. A. MOORE.

ELAM.

I have been reading your paper seven or eight days out of each week and wish there was more of it to read to the old lady. I have a tussle over your paper every time it comes to see what Ruie Johnson has to say.

J. W. Perkins is very low with fever.

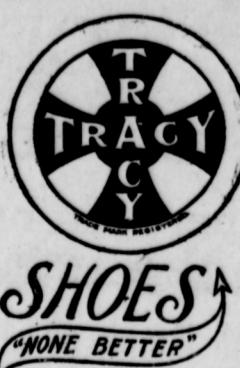

Born to Ernest Elam and wife April 4th, a 10lb boy. They call him L. C. Elam, Jr., after his grandpa.

A. J. Hammonds has been on Kitchen branch leasing land for C. C. Mayo & Co.

While the river was raising Ernest Elam caught a nice ewe lamb from the river, and it is now the greatest pet on the place.

The Printing Press.

I am the printing press, born of mother earth. My heart is of steel, my limbs are of iron, and my fingers are of brass. I sing the songs of the world, the oratories of history, the symphonies of all time. I am the voice of today, the herald of tomorrow.

I weave into the warp of the past the woof of the future. I tell the stories of peace and war alike. I make the human heart beat with passion or tenderness.

I stir the pulse of nations, and make brave men do brave deeds, and soldiers die. I inspire the midnight toiler, weary at his loom, to lift his head again and gaze with fearlessness, into the great beyond, seeking the consolation of a hope eternal.

When I speak a myriad of people listen to my voice. The Anglo-Saxon, the Celt, the Hun, the Slav, the Hindu, all comprehend me. I am the tireless clarion of the news.

I cry your joys and sorrows every hour. I fill the dullard's mind with thoughts uplifting. I am light, knowledge and power.

I epitomize the conquests of mind over all things mankind has achieved. My offspring comes to you in the candle's glow, amid the dim lights of poverty, the splendor of riches; at sunrise, at high noon, and in the waning evenings. I am the laughter and tears of the world, and I shall never die until all things return to the immutable dust. I am the printing press.—Ex.

The Message of Spring.

There's a breeze that tells of a dawning.

There's a rustle among the leaves, The chirp of a bird in the tree-top,

And the frost melts 'way from the eaves.

Do you know that the grass is peeping?

When you hear the gay robins sing?

Do you know when biddy is cheeping?

That all these are the signs of Spring?

There's the croak of a frog in the pond,

There's minnows alive in the brook;

And signs of life in the forest In every corner and nook.

Do you know the flowers are blooming?

When you see the bee on the wing?

Do you know when the cows are lowing?

That all these are the signs of Spring?

When the house is all turned topsy-turvy,

Your bed changed corners you find,

When the maid is beating the carpet,

And the clothes are out on the line:

Dame Nature comes around with her broom

And cleans from bottom to top;

Then from her wonderful sea, with love

Sends down a nice gentle shower.

When you hear the sound of a hammer

And smell paint adrift in the air,

You see some one cleaning a garden,

Or planting the seeds with great care,

When you feel that winter is over,

Great joy to your heart does it bring;

When the sun smiles brightly upon us

You realize then it is Spring.

You may feel a little "mite" lazy, But you know it won't do to shirk;

You must do your part of the labor

When all Nature's alive at work.

You must bear your part of the burden

While upon this green earth you trod;

Be brave and help the world be happy

By uniting in praise to God.

Mrs. E. W. Williams.

EDITORIAL.

Our Candidates.

"When a man announces himself as a candidate he straightforwardly goes to drinking and continues it until the primary. Otherwise he would lose the drunkard votes."

These are the words of a staunch Republican who is in favor of sober, law-abiding officers who will work for the interest of the taxpayers of Magoffin county.

Already the candidates are beginning to ask you to support them. What are you saying Mr. Taxpayer? Are you going to vote for the man who puts the greatest amount of money and whisky into the campaign or are you going to do otherwise? It's time you were thinking some. The taxpayers do a great deal of grumbling. If you want to do effective grumbling do it at the primary November 12.

If you are against the man who purchases the office with money and whisky, thereby ruining the Republican party, as well to keep worthy, honest men out of office, then you should help your neighbor talk it up. Remember that the voters may have good officers if they want

Standing in the Race for National Delegates.

Washington, D. C., April 15—Senator Dixon at the Roosevelt headquarters said today: "Five hundred and ninety-two delegates to the Republican National Convention have been selected up to date. Of these 216 are for Col. Roosevelt, 56 for Taft, 4 for Senator Cummins, 36 for Senator LaFollette, 94 uninstructed, including 84 from New York State, and contests are pending in cases of the remaining 189."

them. If you are for a good man and for this principle of selecting good men do not be afraid to talk it at home, in the store and throughout the county.

If we suffer unfair republicans to get nominations dishonestly then we shall have a number of Democrats winning out over our nominees.

Postal Saving Bank for Salyersville.

Postmaster Adams is receiving the outfit for a Postal Savings Bank. This should be a great boon to those who want to save small amounts and get interest on them.

Any person over ten years of age may deposit any amount from $1 to $100 per month. Uncle Sam stands for this money and pays you two per cent interest provided it is not withdrawn in one year. The money may be withdrawn at any time.

Mr. Adams showed us the coupons which are artistically printed by the government. They are the same size as our currency and similarly printed.

The one dollar denominations are yellowish back, the two dollar a blue back, the five dollar a pink back, the ten dollar a green back and the fifty dollar a purple back.

By a method of stamping one can deposit ten cents at a time until one dollar is deposited when interest begins.

The postoffice will not be opened to receive money until May 1.

We have hundreds of men, women and children throughout Magoffin who should take advantage of this new institution. By laying up a few dollars per month you will soon have an amount that will come in handy when sickness or death comes. Most people spend too much and do not prepare for the "rainy days" of their lives. We all may expect these "rainy days" to come.

For many years our Government has been behind other civilized nations in having no Postal Saving Banks and no Parcel's Post. We now have the Saving Banks. Let us profit by them.

Will Taft Withdraw.

Gloom, inches thick, pervaded the atmosphere today wherever the Louisville supporters of President Taft gathered, and, with few exceptions, the Taft leaders were talking about the wisdom of Mr. Taft withdrawing so that Justice Chas. E. Hughes, of the Supreme Court, can be brought out as a third candidate.

That the overwhelming rout of the Taft forces in Pennsylvania will have an effect in every part of the country was clearly demonstrated by the attitude of the Taft men in Kentucky.

Despite the overthrow in Illinois the Taft men here had confidently predicted victory in Pennsylvania, basing their confidence on the fighting power of the regular Republican machine. The result has left them in a half-dazed state, which, with the majority, includes an admission that "Taft cannot be elected."—Evening Post.

NOW THE IRRIGATION CLUB

Work on Reclamation Projects Held Up Until States Send Taft Delegates.

Letters received at the Taft headquarters in Washington from some of the arid land states of the Rocky Mountain region show that the use of the Federal patronage club as a means of forcing the election of Taft delegates to the Republican national convention is only one of the schemes by which the Taft managers are seeking to bring about the renomination of their candidate, regardless of the desire of the rank and file of the Republican party. These letters report a new method of applying Federal pressure. It is an astonishing method, and it evidences a desperation on the part of the Taft managers which could hardly be believed if the evidence were not so clear.

This new method has to do with the national irrigation policy. One of the greatest achievements of Theodore Roosevelt's administration was the adoption of this national irrigation policy and the creation of the reclamation service for the establishment of irrigation works in the dry-land states of the west, and the opening up of the lands thus reclaimed to farm settlement. The work has been enormously successful. Thousands of substantial farmers have found homes upon land made astonishingly fertile by irrigation, which before the adoption of this policy lay idle and unproductive. Millions of acres of sagebrush have been made productive of enormous crops. The work has been of incalculable value to the nation as a whole. Now, for purely political reasons and in the effort to force the selection of delegates to the Republican national convention who will vote for the renomination of Mr. Taft, this great irrigation work has received a tremendous check. A single illustration suffices to show: In the State of Colorado there are two irrigation projects under way, one is what is known as the Grand Valley project, the other what is known as the Gunnison Tunnel project. The Grand Valley project was started by the reclamation service in 1908 when James R. Garfield, one of Colonel Roosevelt's enthusiastic supporters, was Secretary of the Interior. The contracts were approved and the work commenced. Thirty days after the inauguration of Mr. Taft and the installation of Richard A. Ballinger as Secretary of the Interior this work was stopped. Since that time no one protest or another, no work has been done. There has been a long hard round of investigations, by special agents and army boards, until the whole project is wound up in red tape and delay. Thousands of acres of land that might by this time have been brought under water to furnish homes for many families, and productive farms of great value to the nation's commerce, are still idle because of the inactivity of the interior department. At the same time, work on the Gunnison tunnel is at a standstill, and the reclamation of the great Uncompahgre valley is not completed. Two years ago Congress provided a special emergency fund of twenty-five million dollars ($25,000,000) in order that certain of these projects which had been started might be hurried through to completion. Of this fund one million five hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000) was allotted to the Grand Valley project, but still the work was not given to commence work under this allotment and nothing is done. Work now comes to the Roosevelt headquarters in Washington that the reclamation service agents upon some of these suspended projects have received direct information from the department of the interior plainly stating that this and other irrigation projects are being held up until the different states affected report properly to Washington on the subject of delegates to the Republican national convention.

It is not a question with the Taft managers of the development of the arid lands of the west. It is not a question of the reclamation of thousands of acres of sagebrush and the opening up of hundreds of productive farms. It is not a question of the increase of the commerce of the country. It is only a question of driving through the selection of a few more Taft delegates to the Chicago convention.

"White Slave"

Woman Arrested.

Upon her arrival on the L. & E. train from Jackson Friday morning, accompanied by two young girls, Evelyn Martin, a woman connected with a licentious resort at Lexington, was arrested at the union station in that city by detectives Veal and Thompson on suspicion of white-slaving. The woman was taken to police headquarters and locked up, while the girls, aged 19 and 20, respectively, who said they lived near Jackson, were taken to the Detention home.

The girls admitted to the detectives that the Martin woman purchased and gave them articles of clothing in preparation for the trip to Lexington. The Martin woman is well known to the Lexington local police, who expect to bring out at her examining trial some damaging testimony, identifying her with the immoral traffic which, it is alleged, has been going on for some time between Lexington and certain sections of the Mountains.—Exchange.

The Fiscal Court met Tuesday to let the contract of repairing and painting the roof of the court house and calcimining the walls to the lowest and best bidder. Several bids were made but Messrs. Frank Hazelrigg and Sam Metzger bid to do the work for $245, this being the lowest bid.

They also gave the Mountaineer the contract for printing the delinquent list and Sheriff's settlements. In next week's paper we hope to have the delinquent list.

Elliott Harmon assisted us in getting some subscriptions to the Mountaineer at the convention. Many men have done and are still doing much for us by recommending the Mountaineer to their many friends, but we mention Mr. Harmon because we have said many things against whisky. If a man who uses whisky can recommend the Mountaineer to his friends then why cannot many of our subscribers urge their friends to subscribe for it.

Our School.

The following notice from Prof. Benge, who was employed as principal of the Salyersville school and taught until January when he stopped his work and accepted a place in Magoffin Institute, needs no comment:

"Salyersville, Ky., Apr. 17, '12.

On Monday, April 29, 1912, I shall begin teaching at the public school building and continue for two weeks. This will complete the six month term of the graded school which began last August. All grades are invited to attend. W. M. BENGE."

It wasn't a Missouri editor but a printer's devil who was going thru his first experience in making up forms. The paper was late and the boy got the galley mixed. The first part of an obituary of an old penurious citizen had been dumped into the forms, and the next handful of type came off of a galley describing a fire. It read like this: "The pallbearers lowered the body to the grave and it was consigned to the flames, there being few if any regrets, for the old wreck had been an eyesore to the town for years. Of course, there was an individual loss, but that was fully covered by insurance. The widow thinks that the editor wrote the obituary that way because the lamented partner of her joys and sorrows owed him five years' subscription.—Ex.

Perhaps it is true that the expression, "Mind your p's and q's," originally referred to pints and quarts in the ancient ale house score, but the advice has been given innumerable times in composing rooms to young men learning to set type.

A man in Los Angeles tells of falling into a den of rattlesnakes, of the horrible fascination he felt in watching them crawl around and over him, and of finally getting up and with the aid of a friend, killing four or five. The earth, we are told, will be habitable for the next 10,000,000 years. This announcement will cause a feeling of relief among those who have been thinking of leasing apartments on Mars.

Middletown, O., Apr. 15, 1912, Editor Mountaineer:—By chance a copy of your paper has fallen into my hands and every column read with pleasure. I find the names of many dear friends on its pages. I am glad to say that I was born in the grand old State of Kentucky of which I am proud, even her character be stained with many treacherous deeds. Go where you may in this unfriendly world you will find the records blotted with greater crimes, yet they are not in old Kentucky.

I am fortunate enough or unfortunate, ever which you choose to call, to have wandered far beyond her portals wide, from the green, mossy mountains where the pure water sparkles with its radiant light to the fair coast of Florida and California, but calls me hence. Perhaps it is an aged mother who often prays for me and who, if could call back her childhood days, be near to the grand old town of Salyersville. But I am glad to say I am healthy and happy with my dear wife and babes. Long live the Mountaineer as she speeds out over this broad continent like a fast fleeting arrow and spreads happy news to many homes.

Our Farmers $ Corner.

The first farmer who reads this corner one year and states to us that he has failed to be benefitted one dollar we will give him the dollar that he paid us for the paper.

Do not rush your crops—either field or garden—into the ground before the soil is properly prepared. It pays to make thorough preparation by mellowing the ground and crushing the clods before they have seasoned.

Drag or harrow your soil the same day it is plowed. It does not pay to wait until the field is plowed before you begin crushing the clods. They are more easily mellowed when first plowed up. If you will go by the "hen egg test" you will have better crops. This test means that you have practically no clods larger than a hen egg. Remember that the roots do not penetrate the clods.

Editor Mountaineer:

Dear Sir:—I notice you have a corner for the co-operation of farmers. I have been studying this proposition and have come to the conclusion that the problem of human existence has ever depended upon uplift of the races. Ages ago the survival of the fittest was the idea. Little by little brotherly love increased and now the nation which values human life the most sacred, that nation is most civilized.

All lines of human activity points to the farm for the basis of support. No ingenuity of man can increase wealth of a nation like the farmer. Could we treat the currency of a land as currency and not as property and they try to measure the output of man's labor, we must go to the food products for the first incentive.

The farmer, by work and intelligence, may increase his income from breaking even to a profit, and still keep his original capital intact. The lumberman robs the forest, and only by his labor in his and his son's generation may he give back to the world the losses.

The steel factories can turn out the nails and wire, rails and ship's armor plate, but the ingenuity of man cannot replenish the mine with ore that is gone.

That human existence may have as little friction as possible the getting of the food stuffs should be made as easy as possible.

Co-operation is the most feasible way for this to be done.

The farmer has ever been imbued with the notion of independence until he is so wrapped up in the thought that he hates to give way.

There is less co-operation now than forty years ago. Then very few farmers did their own harvesting alone. One machine answered for four to six farms, and while the harvest was a little longer being done there was no money out. Now each farm has its mower, binder and other expensive machinery as well as some even advocate an expensive gasoline outfit for each farm.

If the farmers of our county could but educate themselves to see the advantage of co-operation, get rid of the idea that we are independent, and begin to study along the lines of helping one another instead of pulling to the opposite, how much happier our work would be.

If the Mountaineer can touch our hearts to action along the lines of co-operation then, in my judgment, it will not have been born in vain.

No Printer There.

Gov. Mann, of Virginia, has discovered that the list of prisoners at the State penitentiary does not include a printer. Some time ago the Governor received a letter from the owner of a country newspaper asking him for any information concerning any printers who might be incarcerated and intimating that he deserved to employ one of them provided the man was worthy and could be paroled.

The superintendent of the prison immediately began an examination of his records and later reported that among the twelve hundred boarders in his establishment he was unable to find one who could qualify as a printer. He found preachers and doctors, lawyers and cashiers, blacksmiths and bricklayers, factory girls and clothiers and cooks, all the professions and trades of every imaginable color but the typographical artist was missing.

Sometimes it takes an unusual event to impress on our minds a fact of which we have been conscious a long time. So it is in this case. We have known always that printers have habit of attending to their own business and keeping away from jail, but we never thought of it as being an exceptional circumstance until we read of the report made by the penitentiary superintendent to the Governor. We then remembered that in all our life we had never heard of no "typo" behind the bars, and we concluded that what is true of the past will be true of the future. Printers today are progressive, proud of their employment and ambitious to make it an avenue for development and to keep it free from any conditions which may effect it adversely. They are influencing each other to higher efforts, offering encouragement to those who are willing to advance, and destroying any disposition on the part of fellow workers to injure the principles for which they stand.—American Type Founders Bulletin.

A Connecticut man lost his horse, and after exhaustive searching found the missing animal in an orchard lying beside a pile of cider apples in a drunken sleep. The snake stories of the season sound monotonous after this.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

EGGS, MEAT AND MILK SHOULD NOT BE EATEN TOGETHER BY CONSUMPTIVES.

Dr. David R. Lyman holds that eggs are not necessary in the diet of the tuberculous patient. This we think should be apparent from the fact that there is nothing in eggs which can not be obtained better in the average case from milk, which, however, should not be taken in its sweet form, in which the curd of cow's milk is extremely indigestible for the adult. The whole milk should be converted into buttermilk, in which the curd is so broken up as to be much more easily digested. The purpose in feeding the tubercular person is to furnish the amount of fat, albumen, and carbohydrate that can be assimilated, in the form requiring the expenditure of the least energy for digestion and assimilation, and with the least risk of leaving an indigestible and unassimilable remnant, especially of eggs, meat or milk. Albumen uncoagulated by high temperature as in uncooked eggs, milk and raw meat, is much more easily assimilated than that of bread or baked beans or boiled or fried eggs, and the fat of eggs and milk is much more easily assimilated than beef fat or of pork or roasted peanuts, but the mixture of eggs and milk with beefsteak or even bread, as is customary in the ordinary feeding of the tuberculous, is a violation of a fundamental principle of the monodiet and is counter to the suggestion in the circular of information on the feeding of the tuberculous issued by the State of Illinois—that as far as possible those foods should be eaten at the same meal that digest in about the same time.

Perhaps the best indication of the character of the men behind Taft is shown by the votes of those of his supporters in the senate in the Lorimer and Stephenson bribery cases. Starting with New England, we find that Dillingham of Vermont voted for Lorimer last winter and was chairman of the new committee which an outraged sentiment forced the senate to appoint. In this position he showed time and again his sympathy for Lorimer and was so unfair as to invite sharp criticism. He supported

LORIMER AND HIS MEN ALL FOR TAFT

Their Customary Methods Being Used to Secure Delegates to National Convention.

STEPHENSON, TOO, IN LINE

Senators Who Voted to Seat These Representatives of Privilege and Special Interests United in Working for Taft's Renomination.

Because of the high-handed methods which have been used by the Taft managers to secure delegates for the renomination of the president, a situation has arisen in the ranks of his own supporters which is bound to have a tremendous influence upon the results of the Chicago convention.

There is developing a feeling among them that the methods they have pursued are wrong, not because of their realization that the ordinary rules of ethics have been violated, but because the fact is being brought home to them that the rank and file of the American voters are determined upon clean politics, especially in connection with the nomination and election of their chief magistrate. The country has witnessed the spectacle of the dragging of federal office holders not only in the south but throughout the land for the purpose of forcing the selection of Taft delegates. Officials daring to display independence are subjected to charges of pernicious political activity or threatened with discipline. In the Indiana state convention contesting Taft delegates from Marion county were permitted to vote upon the question of whether they should remain in the convention. In New York the gross frauds which disenfranchised thousands of Republicans added crime to the farce of the State. In Colorado the Guggenheim machine, supported by the vast power of the Guggenheim interests, dominated the situation and forced the election of delegates pledged to vote for Mr. Taft.

These conditions have been repeated elsewhere and give a distaste to candidacy of a man promoted by such outrageous methods. Wherever a proper primary is held there is absent the cry of fraud. In the case of North Dakota, for example, no one questioned the result. This likewise was true of Oklahoma. It will be true of Nebraska, California, Oregon, New Jersey and Massachusetts. It will be true also of Illinois and Maryland. If those states shall secure a presidential preference primary law such as exists in North Dakota and other states.

Opposition of Taft Machine. In view of the way in which the Taft machine is operating, it is interesting to see who compose it. Its manager, Congressman McKinley of Illinois, is a traction magnate, a warm personal friend of ex-Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, and one of Cannon's most ardent supporters in the house of representatives. McKinley was rewarded for his subservience by appointment to chairmanship of an important committee and by being placed in charge of the congressional campaign committee. In this way he became quite a power among his fellow congressmen, and during his years in Washington became known to Aldrich, Crane, Smoot and the other representatives of the "interests." Aldrich is still in Washington, watching over various matters in which he is interested and which are important to his friends in New York, and assisting in the direction of the Taft campaign. He still maintains the most friendly relations with Mr. Taft, who indorsed him so cordially in a speech at Boston, after having approved the tariff law, which the then senator from Rhode Island largely framed. In passing, it may be said that the reports of the tariff board on the wool and cotton schedules of this law show the disgraceful protection accorded to the wool and cotton manufacturers under it. Particularly in connection with cotton, the duties upon which aroused Mr. Aldrich's especial concern, because of the pressure of the cotton trust, known to the trade as the Arkwright club, it should be noted that the tariff board's report shows that American labor, especially upon plain goods, is no better paid than English labor, and that the sole result of the duties is to keep the American market for the special exploitation of the Arkwright club either in normal or abnormal times.

Mr. Aldrich approved the choice of Mr. McKinley as Mr. Taft's campaign manager. So did Senator Crane of Massachusetts and Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, whose cynical disregard of the rights of the plain people is known the country over. In fact, Crane recommended Mr. McKinley to Mr. Taft. Smoot of Utah regards the selection as an excellent one.

May Be Judged by Their Actions. Perhaps the best indication of the character of the men behind Taft is shown by the votes of those of his supporters in the senate in the Lorimer and Stephenson bribery cases. Starting with New England, we find that Dillingham of Vermont voted for Lorimer last winter and was chairman of the new committee which an outraged sentiment forced the senate to appoint. In this position he showed time and again his sympathy for Lorimer and was so unfair as to invite sharp criticism. He supported Lorimer in a report to the senate and will do so in the senate itself. It is hardly necessary to say that he voted to retain Stephenson, a man who admitted a personal expenditure of $107,000 in his senatorial campaign. Galling and Burnham of New Hampshire voted for Lorimer last winter, for Stephenson a few days ago and unquestionably will vote for Lorimer again. Crane of Massachusetts voted for Lorimer and Stephenson and will support Lorimer a second time. Lippitt, who succeeded Aldrich, and Wetmore of Rhode Island voted for Stephenson. Lippitt was not a member of the senate when the Lorimer vote occurred last winter, but there is no question as to what he will do. Wetmore voted for Lorimer the first time and will do so again. Brandegee of Connecticut is a member of the senate ring, and has stood by both Lorimer and Stephenson. McLean, the new senator from Connecticut, voted for Stephenson.

Root of New York voted against Lorimer and for Stephenson. This likewise is the situation of Burton, of Ohio, Page of Vermont and Sutherland of Utah. Penrose and Oliver of Pennsylvania joyfully press Stephenson and Lorimer to their bosoms. They voted for both men and will stand by them to the end. Dupont of Delaware, himself under charges of having purchased his seat in the senate, and his colleague, Richardson, both voted for Lorimer and Stephenson. Dupont will expect the favor to be returned. Bradley of Kentucky, who is supporting Taft, also supports Lorimer and Stephenson.

All Ardent Supporters of Taft.

In Illinois, Lorimer is fighting for Taft, and in Wisconsin Stephenson is doing likewise in South Dakota, Gamble, who voted for both Lorimer and Stephenson, is advocating Taft's nomination. This likewise is true of Warren and Clark of Wyoming, both of whom voted for Lorimer and Stephenson. Senator Heyburn of Idaho has been the ardent champion of both Lorimer and Stephenson. Of course, he is for Taft. Senator Smoot of Utah fought for Lorimer and Stephenson. He is fighting for Taft. Senator Guggenheim, who is identified with the powerful Guggenheim interests, and delivered the Colorado delegation to the Taft column, stood shoulder to shoulder with Lorimer and Stephenson. Senator Nixon is the Nevada cog in the machine and the aid of the two senators whose election it is charged, was procured through bribery and corruption. Senator Perkins of California voted for both Lorimer and Stephenson, but his power has gone with the passing of the Southern Pacific machine from California politics.

Of the Taft Republicans in the senate, only Smith and Townsend of Michigan, Brown of Nebraska and Jones of Washington, voted against both Lorimer and Stephenson. That is to say, but four of Taft's supporters in this large body of men, known to the country as "the greatest legislative assemblage in the world," have stood before the country for clean and honest politics. This was reduced to three, when Jones voted the second time in the committee report, for Lorimer.

Take the record of the progressive Republicans, on the other hand. Every one of them stands for senatorial and presidential preference primaries. Every one of them is opposed to political corruption of any form. Every one of them voted to unseat Lorimer and Stephenson and thus put the brand of dishonesty upon men seeking a seat in the upper house of congress by or through bribery.

In spite of the action of the senate in seating Lorimer and Stephenson by narrow majorities, it is perfectly evident that the country does not accept the verdict as just. The overwhelming sentiment is that seats in the senate should be obtained by honorable and not by dishonorable means. What is true of the senate is likewise true of the presidency. It is evident that any man who is an aspirant for the highest office in the land must be clean morally, ethically and politically. He cannot afford to be smeared by corruption and fraud. He cannot afford to be a party to methods which are a stench in the nostrils of the nation. There is an election to follow the nomination. The Republican party, to be certain of victory, must have as its candidate a leader of whose probity there is no question, upon whose record no taint can be cast, and whose selection is brought about by fair and honorable means. Mr. Taft has ceased to be in this class. He confided his fortunes to Mr. McKinley, knowing the man and knowing for what he stood. He has selected as his advisors men like Crane, Penrose, Smoot and others, knowing the views taken of them by the American people based upon their records as "public servants." He has accepted the support of other men, notably Lorimer and Stephenson, knowing how they gained their elections. He was guided in Indiana by ex-Senator Hemenway and ex-Governor "Jim" Watson, who were repudiated by their own states. He wrote a letter to County Chairman Koenig of New York approving in advance his disgraceful methods in New York. He is hand in glove with State Chairman Barnes of New York.

Taft's Nomination Means Defeat. There is an axiom as old as the hills that a man is known by the company he keeps. There is another old saw that evil associations corrupt good manners. In view of what is known about Mr. Taft's advisers and supporters, in view of the outraged public sentiment which has been created by the spectacle of the President of the United States consorting and advising with, and approving the action of such men, the wiseacres in Mr. Taft's immediate circle are really ing that he cannot and should not be the nominee of the Republican party. To make him the standard bearer would be to invite inevitable defeat.

It is this realization that is responsible for the circulation of reports in Taft newspapers about a possible compromise on another candidate than the President or Colonel Roosevelt. Taft supporters have sought to create the impression that these reports emanate from the Roosevelt headquarters. Nothing is farther from the truth. The strength of Colonel Roosevelt has with the voters is phenomenal. The voters are being denied of their rights by machine methods, but the men behind the Taft candidacy are finding that these voters will not be disenfranchised, that they will have their preference recorded. It is their demands that will be heard in Chicago and that will result in Colonel Roosevelt's nomination.

The Roosevelt delegates, not the Taft delegates, will sit and vote in the Republican national convention in Chicago, because the Republican party will never stand for such methods. The Taft managers in New York and Indiana are pursuing a course which invites the destruction of the party.—New York Evening Mail.
